Vox Printing Named Best Workplace in Best Workplace in the Americas 2017 Competition

Oklahoma City, OK – February 16, 2017 – Vox Printing of Oklahoma City has been awarded the Best Workplace in the Americas (BWA) designation to recognize exemplary human resources practices that create an outstanding workplace. For 17 years, Printing Industries of America's BWA program has acted as an acknowledgment of printing industry excellence in human resources practices. Vox Printing has been recognized each year for the past 11 years.

Being designated a Best Workplace company demonstrates the significant commitment that Vox Printing has made to its employees by investing in their work environment, their personal goals and ambitions, and recognizing that an exceptional workplace also serves the needs of the company.

A panel of respected human relations professionals from the print industry judged entrants against benchmarking categories that promote the most sought-after qualities of today's workforce, including: Communication & Culture, Employee Resources & Benefits, and Work Environment & Safety.

"It's an honor to be recognized by the industry as a company that offers a superior workplace," said Robert Reid, Vice President of Operations at Vox.

Michael Makin, president and CEO of Printing Industries of America, agrees. "Companies recognized in the Best Workplace in the Americas program exhibit the highest commitment to success in many ways, but particularly through their employees. Congratulations to Vox Printing."
